

The soul of an actor

INTRO

I tried to hear my instinct from afar
But it was a dead spirit
I tried to catch something it said
But when I looked my hands were red
And now I wonder, have I killed it?

VERSE 1

Thought that was just not what I wanted
So I drove back to be hunted
I knew I was gonna die
And that, my friends, wasn't a lie
The only thing that now was beating
Was my shadow on the ground
And my panic while I looked around

CHORUS

I'm walking down the road of heaven
But I'm asking who I am
All the deadly sins are seven
And I well remember some of them

VERSE 2

A million minds have passed
Through the same head
A million bodies have laid
On the same bed
A thousand thoughts
Have cut the same pillow
And have struggled to say: no
To a life where they were not that low

And when a script gets lost
Easy to move on
It's just to write another one just like the one that's gone
And when the night erases half those lines
Cleans up half those mines
Leaving only those unimportant signs

CHORUS

I'm walking down the road of heaven
But I'm asking who I am
All the deadly sins are seven
And I well remember some of them

In every rest there's that voice: "this isn't a break"
I'm not fighting for a win because that you can take
I wish I had two lives like in a dream
That way fate and I would have the same team

VERSE 5

And every time you stop and hope that you are wrong
And every time you smile like you're super strong
And every time people check and you're like: I'm not dead
And every time there's a threat and you're like: "Go ahead"

CHORUS

I'm walking down the road of heaven
But I'm asking who I am
All the deadly sins are seven
And I well remember some of them
